Objectives of Early Childhood Tribal Coalition Outreach:

- Develop a clear understanding of the early childhood experiences of native families in Montana, and to identify gaps and opportunities
- Launch a successful and sustainable Early Childhood Tribal Coalition

Mission Statement:

Center Tribal Voices, Nurture Our Future,
Build Stronger Communities Through Early Education.

Who: Members of the Early Childhood Tribal Coalition self-identify as American Indian and/or Alaska Native and are either doing early childhood work or have relevant experience and are currently working within rural or urban tribal communities in Montana (including parents, caregivers and elders).

What: Our mission is to launch and nurture a successful early childhood tribal coalition in Montana.

Why: We believe in the power of collective action to create positive change for young children and native families. By centering tribal voices, we can address systemic challenges and champion the well-being of our children.

Principles and Values:

1. Equity: We prioritize equitable representation and participation of families and providers from each Montana tribe, ensuring that all voices are heard and valued.
2. Awareness: We aim to bring awareness to the unique needs and experiences of tribal communities, engaging families to share their lived experiences and advocate for policies that reflect their needs.
3. Collaboration: We foster collaboration, utilizing diverse perspectives and expertise to develop inclusive and effective solutions.
4. Cultural Safety: We honor and respect the cultural heritage and traditions of native families, recognizing their expertise, strengths, and resilience.
5. Accountability: We are committed to accountability and transparency in our actions, utilizing appropriate tools to develop a clear understanding of early childhood experiences and identify areas for improvement.

Goal: We strive to create a supportive and nurturing environment where every native child and family has the opportunity to thrive.

Zero to Five Montana has been working with collaborating entities towards the November 2024 launch of a statewide, tribal-focused early childhood coalition.

We strive to ensure Montana’s early childhood system uplifts the perspectives, expertise, and experiences of tribal families and early childhood leaders.

A new, statewide coalition will help share knowledge and expertise by supporting and centering voices of tribal families and early educators in Montana.

Join us in building a stronger, more inclusive early childhood coalition across the state. Together, we can ensure that the voices of tribal families and early childhood leaders are heard and valued.
